Art Unit: 1712

1. This application contains claims 8 to 11, drawn to an invention non-elected in Paper No. 5. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of non-elected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.
2. In view of applicants' amendment, limiting the scope of the polymers and the composition in the instant claims, the Examiner re-searched the prior art. As such, the following new grounds of rejection is made.
3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 1, 3 to 5, 13 to 16 and 18 to 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Aoshima et al.

Aoshima et al. teach methods for the production of crosslinked rubber products. This composition contains a compound as taught on column 2, lines 28 to 37, including various sulfur containing compounds such as those within the breadth of component (B) and particularly claim 18. These rubbers are crosslinked by means of a peroxide free radical initiator. See the top of column 3. Note for instance Table 1 and specifically note Example 14. This differs from that claimed in that these examples use dicumyl peroxide in combination with a dimethacrylate crosslinking agent.

Column 4 teaches that the organic peroxides are preferably used with a coagent to improve crosslinking efficiency. Lines 30 to 38 teach that the coagent may be either the dimethacrylate crosslinking agent that is shown in the working examples or, in the alternative, a bismaleimide compound meeting component (A) in the instant claims.

As such one having ordinary skill in the art would have found the combination of an organic peroxide initiator with N,N'-m-phenylene bismaleimide coagent to have been an obvious crosslinking component in the compositions of Aoshima et al. Aoshima et al. teach that various sulfur containing compounds within the breadth of (B) can be used in the composition therein and that the resulting composition results in low surface tackiness. In this manner, one having ordinary skill in the art would have found the combination of components (A), (B) and (C), and their presence in a thermosetting composition as claimed, to have been obvious.

5. Claims 12 and 21 to 25 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. The prior art fails to teach or suggest the combination of (A) to (C) with the polymers in claim 12. In addition, the prior art fails to teach a component (B) as claimed in combination with (A) and (C), or the specific combinations required in claims 23 to 25. For reasons of record, claims 26 and 27 are allowed.

6. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.

7. The remaining references are cited as being of general interest. Miyagawa et al. teaches polymers within the breadth of claim 12, but fails to teach or suggest required component (C). Nagasaki et al. also teach compositions containing a combination of (A) and (B) as claimed, but fail to teach or suggest (C).
